Oregon Broadcasters

“Love your topics and count on them to be timely and interesting for my news.”

“Good pertinent information, timely and good quality.”

“Stories affect the lives of citizens. Actualities complement the stories.”

“The Oregon News Services provides opportunities for differing viewpoints and information to make it into the public debate. As a journalist, it’s a deeply rewarding experience.”

Dondrea Warner, ONS Producer

“Supporting an independent news service dedicated to the public interest means being able to call a journalist that cares about your issues and has the time to listen to regular folks and hear what they have to say about the issues that affect their lives. Not only that, it’s great leadership development and very empowering for new leaders to have a press contact that’s friendly and effective. We’ve heard voices on radio across the states that could never have reached those markets on their own.”

Ruth Alice Anderson, President, Oregon Action

“The swirl of political, social and economic events create a media fog that makes our world seem impenetrable to working families leading busy lives. Breaking through that fog and cutting through the political spin that muddles the airwaves is what the Oregon News Service does best — with timely, incisive comments from people in the news and people affected by the news, broadcast to Oregonians in their kitchens, cars and workplaces. Oregon News Service is a great value to working families in Oregon.”

Tim Nesbitt, President, Oregon AFL-CIO
